

“

I am currently in my senior year at the University of Phoenix. I intend to start a nonprofit business when I graduate college that offers youths and teens advice on how to manage their finances so when they begin their adult life journey they are more equipped for success.

I will be teaching these kids everything they don't teach in public schools. These life skills, I feel, will be very helpful for young adults and give them the confidence to enter the world knowing that they can achieve their dreams."
